The Sign of His Glory

John 2:1-11

The Point: Jesus's work in our lives is for His glory.

The Bible Meets Life: At the end of a big game, we'll often see a reporter interviewing the coach or star player for the team on the field, and the interviewer will ask a question like: "How did it feel to win the big game?" Then we'll hear a response that is similar to: "I want to give all glory to God for this win tonight." For a moment, we join in celebrating the recognition of God on a national platform in a heavily watched moment. Then, typically, the interviewer goes on to ask about that player's personal performance or the coach's critical decisions—to which the person will begin to take full credit for those moments!

If we aren't careful, glorifying God can seem so routine to us that we just assume we're doing it. Especially in the moments when everything is going the way we think it should. "Well, God's involvement is a given; that's understood." Except it's not really.

This week, we're going to see a time when a powerful miracle occurred at a wedding, but many of the people didn't recognize how it happened. In the moment, Jesus didn't use this event as a platform to put the spotlight on the results of the miracle. Rather, it was an opportunity to reveal His power and glory. This miracle would begin Jesus's public ministry.

Live It Out: Worship. Write down recent decisions, motivations, and actions taken in your life. Evaluate how you are using these things to glorify the Lord and point people to Jesus. Praise God for His work in your life.

Obey. Write down two or three things that God may be calling you to obey Him in doing and pray about how you can begin to act upon those things.

Share. Take some time to meet with another group member and ask questions about what this person is celebrating and how he or she is handling struggles in his or her life. What are some needs this individual has that only Jesus can supply?
