A Life of Humble Service (John 13:3-10, 14-16)

The Point: We reflect Christ when we serve others with humility.

The Bible Meets Life: I read a lot of books about kings, swords, and medieval battles. I have discovered that these books of fantasy tend to highlight a fundamental flaw of humanity. In these fictional worlds, strong kings crush weak ones. The fastest blade wins. The frail end up serving the fearsome.

Of course, we don't live in a time of swords and kings, but ours is still a world in which those with strength often oppress instead of support. In the real world, many in positions of power abuse it, but the strongest Person in history set a different example. Jesus walked the earth with the power of God Himself, but He didn't crush, kill, or overwhelm. He had power the world had never seen, but He used it to serve.

That is to be our way as well. Since being connected to Christ gives us opportunity for abundance, and since being like Jesus means becoming the person God wants us to be, then we should treasure humility. The God of heaven put on flesh and served the world. And we reflect Christ powerfully when we serve with humility.

Live It Out: Make a list. Consider the ways Jesus has served you, and thank Him for those things in your time with Him this week.

Pray for someone you can serve. Ask God to put one person on your heart whom you can serve. Decide how you can serve them, and do that this week. Model service as a group. Get with a group, either your small group or a group of family and friends, read John 13:1-17, and either wash each other's feet or choose another humble act of service you can do together.
