Jesus Displayed

1 Corinthians 9:16-27

The Point: We can share Jesus with others as we step into their stories.

The Bible Meets Life: I've never been afraid of heights—as long as my feet were on solid ground. I remember a time when I was definitely out of my comfort zone when it came to heights. I took our students to Gatlinburg for a winter retreat and gave them some free time in Pigeon Forge. We were at a place with a bungee jump, and they somehow talked me into trying it. I was okay until I reached the edge and suddenly fear set in; my legs didn't want to obey. I had to make my legs do what they didn't naturally want to do—jump.

That's how we sometimes feel when we see an opportunity to share Jesus with those around us. It might be uncomfortable or unnerving, but Jesus calls us to get past our fears and tell others about Him.

In this session, we'll see how we're compelled to share Jesus with others—even those outside our comfortable cultural circle—once we've experienced the truth and salvation found in Him.

Live It Out: Pray. If you're afraid, ask Jesus to take away your fear so that you can tell others about Him. Learn. One way I've found to overcome the fear of witnessing is to learn how to do so effectively by asking someone who is consistent and confident to show you how to share the gospel confidently and effectively. Share. When you see an opportunity, take the leap and share the life-changing truth of the gospel. Discipline your heart and mind to look for and respond to those "diving opportunities" to share Jesus with others.
